ACADEMIC APPOINTMENTS:

1995-Present Adjunct Associate Professor of Psychiatry
Lecturer in Law
University of Maryland School of Medicine

Mental Disability and Criminal Law: The course, taught as a seminar, examines issues that arise in criminal cases involving persons with mental disability. Topics include mental non-responsibility, criminal competencies, disposition issues, and expert witness consultation. Course materials include cases and legal commentary, selections from psychiatry, psychology, and forensic mental health literature, as well as live case presentations held in facilities that evaluate and treat persons with mental illness or developmental disability.

1986-1994 Assistant Clinical Professor of Psychiatry
1994-Present Visiting Lecturer in Psychiatry
Yale University School of Medicine

Law & Psychiatry Division: The Law & Psychiatry Division is one of ten programs accredited in the United States for the Training of Forensic Psychiatrists. The Division and its component, the New Haven Court Clinic, provide approximately 200 evaluations annually for the court system and attorneys. The faculty plays an active role in providing consultations and training to representatives of the legal system, the mental health system and the community, in determining the needs and resources for forensic psychiatric patients.

1992-1994 Adjunct Clinical Professor of Correctional Mental Health
1994-Present Visiting Lecturer in Psychiatry
New York Medical College Graduate School of Health Sciences

The correctional health concentration was developed to address public and professional concerns about such health problems in correctional settings as AIDS, hepatitis, and other communicable diseases, inmate suicide and drug addiction, and the lack of compliance with established health care standards by governmental agencies. The program prepares candidates for management, education, consultation, and research positions in the United States and abroad. Students in correctional health are provided with knowledge and skills to function effectively in secure settings.

CURRENT EMPLOYMENT:

1990-Present Medical Director
Forensic Consultation Associates, Inc.

Forensic Consultation Associates, Inc. is a national firm that specializes in psychiatric consultations in civil and criminal litigation. Under Dr. Phillips's leadership the practice has expanded to provide clinical evaluation and expert testimony in trial proceedings in state and federal courts, education and training on mental health issues for attorneys, jurors, and law enforcement agencies in addition to hospital consultations on security treatment issues and corporate dangerousness assessments.

1996-Present Mental Health Liaison Consultant
United States Secret Service

Serves as expert psychiatric consultant to the Protective Intelligence Division of the United States Secret Service by providing: (1) case consultation in reviewing protective intelligence data assisting in the investigative risk assessment process; (2) field based training, both orientation and advanced, for protective intelligence agents regarding psychiatric, medical, pharmacologic, and mental health law concepts which are relevant to the Service's investigative interests; and (3) professional liaison between the Service and the mental health community.

Reporting to the Special Agent in Charge of the Washington Field Office provides clinical support to the National headquarters in addition to the Baltimore, Philadelphia, Prosburnh, and Richmond field offices and their resident agencies.

PREVIOUS EMPLOYMENT

1993-1997 Deputy Medical Director
American Psychiatric Association

The American Psychiatric Association is a national medical specialty society of over 40,000 physician members who specialize in the diagnosis and treatment of mental and emotional disorders. Appointed in July 1993 as Deputy Medical Director, Dr. Phillips served as the Director of the Office of Psychiatric Services, Director of the Office of Minority and National Affairs, and as Clinical Director of the Office of Economic Affairs and Practice Management. These offices support psychiatrists and their service to patients by providing leadership and staff assistance for issues concerning access to quality treatment for mental illness in both public and private settings, and in supporting high quality psychiatric services that meet the needs of patients and their communities.

As Deputy Medical Director, Dr. Phillips was responsible for directing staff support for the Councils of National Affairs, Children and Adolescents and their Families, Psychiatric Services, Addiction Psychiatry, and Economic Affairs as well as other components relative to the offices. Additionally, had oversight of the CMHS, Burroughs Wellcome and Mead-Johnson Fellowship programs and co-directed the Program for Minority Research Training in Psychiatry. Also had oversight responsibility for the APA Consultation Service.

Other responsibilities included APA's liaison efforts for mental health services in jails, prisons and the criminal justice system and provided linkages with local, state and federal grants governments in efforts relative to these populations.

1986-1993 Director of Forensic Services
State of Connecticut, Department of Mental Health

Chief Executive Officer
Whiting Forensic Institute

Developed, directed and coordinated all forensic services and programs for the State of Connecticut and served as the Chief Executive Officer for Whiting Forensic Institute, the State's sole maximum security hospital. As Director reported directly to the Commissioner of Mental Health and supervised all staff assigned; participated in administrative and clinical programs for forensic services to insure conformance with statutes and departmental policies; collaborated with law enforcement and judicial officials to improve services to mentally ill citizens; developed and maintained a data base to assist in planning and evaluation activities, and as departmental liaison working with facilities, public and private groups, advisory and review boards achieved continuity of services for the mentally ill offender and encouraged the development of forensic programs in the Department of Mental Health.

As Chief Executive Officer, was responsible for the development of programming and practice standards which led to a full three year accreditation by the Joint Commission on the Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations in May 1990 and recertification in May 1993. This achievement, the first in Whiting's twenty year history, nationally recognized the Institute as one of only fourteen freestanding, fully accredited forensic hospitals in the United States.
